HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 5TH, 1874.

AT the recent meeting of the RECREATION CLUB some information of interest with reference to the extension of the Praya was given to the public. It will be recollected that some time ago we sketched a scheme by which the Praya towards the East might bo greatly improved, and suggested that if leave could be obtained from the Military Authorities to extend it over the portion of ground which belongs to them near the Cricket Ground, it would be possible to complete the tion with the late disturbance. Praya Eastward so that a tramway might be placed upon it, which would be of great shortly to Shanghaiadvantage to the public. It seems from the correspondence which was read at the meeting in question that one portion of this scheme at least has been under consideration that, namely of extending the Praya un-Surveyor-General, it appears further that the Military Authorities are disposed to make the necessary concession. It is very much to be regretted, under these circum. stances, that the serious damage caused by the recent typhoon, will in all likelihood render it impossible to carry out any such scheme for some time to come-probably, a cording to what was said at the meeting, at least five years. It is to be hoped, however, that the scheme in question will not be abandoned, and that when opportunity offers to take Gaol, asked for a remand. He said that he was steps for a permanent improvement to the instructed by the Superintendent of the gaol to Praya, it may be reconsidered, and if pos- of 14 days' imprisonment yesterday (3rd) for

As suggested some time ago, it is highly desirable that the question of the Praya charge room cell, by request of the police, should be fully gone into and that some scheme should be devised for supplying sisting of Dr. Ayres, the Colonial Surgeon, and one even at the cost of what may be a large Dr. Clapham, who will sit this afternoon to sum which will be proof against typhoons. It is a penny wise and pound foolish policy | The case was then remanded till Friday. to go on with a system of construction which experience proves requires to be renewed every time Hongkong is visited by a typhoon; each and we certainly think it would be only common sense to postpone the waterwork scheme until a want which is certainly more pressing the Messageries Maritimes Co.'s Godowns at has been supplied. The amount that is expended in the course of ten years on the repairs to the Praya would probably be sufficient to build a sea wall which would stand with small repairs from time to time, per- leaving the gool. manently, and it is an unsatisfactory state of things that a constant drain should be made upon the resources of the Colony, if it is pos--sible by a more carefully devised plan and the expenditure of a sufficient sum at once, to make the Praya in such a way that it will be proof against damage of any serious character in the worst weather. So far as we understand the matter the building of a sea wall would not be comparatively very expensive, and as the work would spread over a series of years, the cost might not be burdensome if properly adjusted and arranged for. have proceeded in any other way. If the scheme were undertaken shortly it need not for some time interfere with the Boat House, as the work might be completed in sible. other parts first and the Boat House portion done only at the conclusion. THE BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS A STANDING RAILWAY GRIEVANCE FOR AUGUST The loard facts established by the Board of Prade Returns for Adjust are that our Imports continue to augment in value, while our Exports ontinue to fall off. The increase on the year is slight and the decrease is not great, atil the figures indicate this result. It would be very basty, however to imp to the conclusion that therefore our Trade la in-a bad condition, or that, it is growing malerially worse. On the contrary, mutters are improving. The Exporfor the month of August show a decrease in value as compared with the same month last year of mearly 10 per cent., but the fall upon the year up to the end of that month is not so grea as it was some time ago. This is negative consolation only, it is true; but there are some piber elements in the account which may help to increase its value. It must never be forgotten that the Trade of this country is very complicated, and that it is not safe to generalize hastily from more aggregates of figures. For the past twelve or eighteen months this caution has been particularly necessary. So many adverse causes have been at work within that it required extreme watchfulness to be able to say what was our real commercial position. ORIENTAL STUDY.

The idea of "solidarity" is rapidly taking a leading place among the prominent thoughts of the present age. In no divilised country does any class of workers delight in a separate existenco. Each feels itself united by close bonds to all who have similar aims and pursuits in other nations. Hence International Congresses are becoming common. Lust week all the world was reading the barangues of Socialist delegates at Brussels; and in the tame city students of international law, from the leading States, have been doing their utmost to solve knotty problems that affect equally all European peoples. Of such assemblies none desurve warmer recognition than the International Congress of Orientalists, now holding its meetings in London. It is unobtrusive in its pretensions; but its labours display the highest tidemark of modern thought incertain directions. and encourage a movement which, although apparently remote from daily life, will in the long run affect the most familiar ideas and feelings. Yesterday Mr. Max Muller opened the Aryan Section of the Congress; and his speech was a record of achievements of which sobulars may well be proud. On such a subject no one is better fitted to address an audience than Mr. Muller. He has won, as an original investigator, a European fame; but in England we owe him desper gratitude than is due to a mere etplorer. He has mustered grand ideas, and communicated them to the whole reading public. The science of language was most unknown in this country until famous lectures, as obserming in style as they are fresh and vigorous in thought, traced the chief lines which had already heen marked by Germanand French philologers. Yesterday he made an elequest plea for his favourite studies. Here and there he perhaps adopted an exuggerated style of expression. For instance, he compared the influence-likely to be exerted on Western thought by contact with that of the East to the effects of Roman and Greek culture on the Northern barbarians. This is surely speaking too strongly. The old Teutonic warriors, when they reached the sunny countries of the South, were smazed by the spectacle of a superior civilisation, and in many instances were subdued and tamed by the peoples they conquered. Nothing analogous to this happens with respect to East and West in our day. Oriental peoples have to learn from us much more than we can learn from them. Still, no one acquainted with the facts will deny the enormous benefits which have sprung from a study of Eastern languages-and, above all, Sanscrit. Mr. Muller dwelt emphatically on the important part played in that study by the comparative method. And of course he is right; we should still have been labouring under the old, delusions as to the "primitive speech" if Latin, Greek, Sanscrit, and the cognate Aryan tongues, had not been compared and classified in a strictly scientific spirit. It is well, however, to remember that the comparative method is not confined to philology. By this method all the greatest recent advances in science have been made. To it are due the greatest discoveries in auttomy and physiology; and the magnificent dostrine of the correlation of forces is simply a triumph of comparative research: The comparative method is, in fact, the funcies we yet comprehend the true place of every language; whole families of speech have meyer even been examined. Nor does an one pretend that the origin of speech itself i understood. When we touch that question we come upon an ultimate difficulty, respecting which we must be content to remain ignorant But we have at least reached thus far-we are assured there is nothing arbitrary in speech uny more than in the movements of planets o the growth of trees, and the great languages of the world have been arranged in groups which indicate their kinship, and by which each throws light upon the other. English and Sansorit are proved to belong to one family; and they spring from the same source as Latin, Greek, Persian Celtic, and the Slavonic dialects. The tongue of our Aiyan forefathers is, in essence, that which we and our Aryun kinstolk still use Then come the Semitic and Turanian families. unlike each other in many respects, and unlike the Aryan family; but resemblances, even here, (underlie all differences, and one of the problems of the future will be to detect, these, and to reveal unity in elements at present widely so-Mr. Muller clearly showed that the comparative study of languages has profoundly affected have one general meaning. The fresh significance when we find that others, under totally different conditions, have puzzled over the same enigmas, and attempted equally complete solutions. Western modes of thought and feeling will certainly not be revolutionised by Eastern ideas, but they may be widened and enriched. Knowledge of Sansorit, in which one section of our kinsmen has utfered its deepest aspirations, will save us from concluding that we discern every aspect of the truth, or that the whole truth can be grasped by any single race. are reported good. After making necessary, allowances for the deficient yiel of oats and rye, it appears safe to conclud that in departments comprising more than 21,000,000 acres general barvest results will be serge 50d ser departments, covering 13,500,000 two feet and departments, containing 1,600,000 acres, middling; and in the Pyrencos Orientales alone with there be any deficiency. Very invourable reports have also been received from Algeria, where the yield has been con siderably above the average. With these relised in view, there appears every probability that France will be a large exporter of food grains this year, instead of an importer, as 1873; or, in other words, will have more mone to spend and to save...

TAOR comprehensiveness and practical survive bhis Work stands unrivalled. All the now words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous ubjects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accente being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typo graphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond us the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration, Chalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Obinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters.
